

You said it...

It would be great if you could provide more software based on the different distributions of Linux. Since I am a novice in this area, I would also request you to provide some step-by-step installation procedures of the software and operating systems, along with the DVD.

ED: Thanks for the suggestions. We will surely try and start including instructions on how to install the distros in future editions of LFY, and also try and increase the range of software that we bundle with each edition.

I am a regular subscriber for LFY. Of late, I have been receiving defective DVDs very often.

Since I am a die-hard Linux fan, I am still subscribing to the magazine out of my love for the subject. But I really wish you had a better system in place! Hoping for some improvement in your DVD supplies.

ED: Thanks for sharing this concern with us. We will surely look into our dispatch and packaging system once again. Perhaps, the problem occurred because of moisture as it rained excessively this time, or there must have been some sort of mishandling in transit. As regards the quality of DVDs, we are 100 per cent confident on that count, since we source our CDs and DVDs from one of the best vendors in this domain—Moser Baer.

We have also requested our customer support team to send you a replacement DVD as soon as possible. However, we regret the inconvenience caused to you.

We will do our best to get this problem sorted out soon, so that you not only continue to read and support the magazine, but also start recommending LFY to others :-)

How does one order archive editions?

I am a final year BSc computer science student. I am from Mauritius but have been studying in Pune since the last three years. I am a regular reader of LINUX For You and I must say that the magazine is amazing. It helps me a lot even with my studies. It would be really interesting if you could plan an edition on Java programming in one of your forthcoming editions.

Unfortunately, I missed the June and July 2010 editions and I am not able to find these through any of my regular magazine vendors.

I was wondering if you could tell me where I could find these editions. Or else, kindly let me know the procedure to source the magazines from your office.

ED: It feels great to know that you like the magazine and find its content valuable. We have passed on your request regarding an edition on Java programming to our editorial team. So do keep reading...

As regards procuring the archive editions of the magazine, you can reach our support team at support@kitsnspares.com and order any of the older editions. This one time, however, we have forwarded your request to our team already. You will soon be hearing from them.
