

How can you call a phone
'smart' if it gets clogged with dumb emails everyday?

Get SmartEmail from Mailserve

If your smartphone was really smart, you should only get 'important' email on it - right? But aren't you already experiencing otherwise, with everything, including all the junk email you receive also landing into your smartphone?

MailServe ensures that your email gets smarter, and you less stressed - by letting you filter what goes where, and what you'd like to see in your Inbox, and your smartphone. And more important, all mail including mail sent from your smartphone stay perfectly in sync, without having to mark a bcc: to yourself, which is what the best solution today offers! So whether you access your email from your laptop, web-mail or your smartphone, they're all in perfect sync - which is why we call it SmartEmail!

So if you've been longing to switch to the latest iOS or Android smartphone, but were being held back because they couldn't handle your email like you've become used to, then you're going to love this feature. SmartEmail from MailServe - reclaim your Inbox, and do more besides!
