Design Engineers' Conference

February 22, 2013, Pragati Maidan, New Delhi

The theme for the conference is to focus on how to lower the power consumption of electronic products.

Major topics

- Important design considerations for low power applications
- Power optimisations in the Linux Kernel for Android devices
- Reducing power consumption in circuits
- Reducing power consumption in LED circuits
- Low power design: A combination of hardware, software and common sense
- Multidisciplinary approach to enhancing value generation from electronic innovations

Who should attend?

Electronics engineers involved in the process of designing chips and circuits, and developing electronics products and systems would be the primary audience interested in this seminar.

Delegate Fee: ₹2500
