

Open Source For You

Announcing

the Launch of the

Ask

Expert

Section

Over the past two decades, the Linux and open source movement has been getting more prominence. Open Source For You (formerly known as Linux For You) was one of the first magazines to recognise the trend and launch a platform for professionals to get and share information about open source and Linux.

With the open source movement surging forward across the globe, its deployment in various verticals has increased, thus generating new and more complex challenges for systems administrators and IT managers.

To address these challenges, we at OSFY have launched the 'Ask the Expert' section, dedicated to answering queries from IT managers and sysadmins on the following topics

1. Network infrastructure
2. Network security
3. Messaging (email, audio/video-chat, instant messaging)
4. Network architecture
5. Network storage
6. Business applications

E-mail your queries to askexpert@ofy.in, and get the answers from our team of experts.

OSFY team

