

Hitachi's new home theatre projector offers 3D viewing!

Hitachi has introduced its latest home entertainment projector—the Hitachi CP-DH300 that delivers HD 1920×080 pixel cinematic performance in high quality 3D, in the comfort of a living room, at an affordable price. With an impressive 3000 lumens from a small, sleek, projector that weighs a mere 2.2 kg, the CDPH300 is easy to move from room to room.

This single-chip DLP technology projector comes equipped with a dynamic contrast ratio of 20000:1 which enables sharper images; a high zoom range of 1.3X that allows for razor-sharp focus; a native resolution of 1920 x 1080 pixels; and a widescreen format 16:9 aspect ratio with a built-in wide angle lens that throws a 198cm (78") diagonal image at just 2 metres from the screen. It offers rich connectivity including HDMI input and projector features, and built-in sound with an option to add external speakers. It also provides eco-friendly power saving through its Intelligent Eco feature (Go Green & Quiet) based on the Image Care technology that regulates lamp power, combining optimal picture performance with maximum energy savings. On the 'Go Green' mode, lamp power is controlled by the image signal to between 33 per cent and 100 per cent on this model and on 'Quiet' mode, the noise level is lowered to 29dB from 34dB (normal mode).

Logitech's Bluetooth audio adaptor enables a wireless sound system

Logitech has unveiled its Bluetooth audio adaptor that turns wired speakers into a wireless sound system for smartphones and tablets. It features multi-point Bluetooth connectivity that enables one-touch pairing for up to two devices, which enables streaming the audio with just a push of a button. If the speakers are out of range, the adaptor automatically repairs to other devices nearby so that the music experience doesn't get hindered. The adaptor is attached to the speakers using a standard analogue RCA or 3.5 mm cable, helping one to control the speakers with a reliable direct line-of-sight connection from up to 15.24m (50 feet).
