Askar Askur:

I have a folder A and its duplicate folder B. I want to add some files in folder A and modify some. I also want to update the folder B with the latest modifications in folder. In a nutshell, I want all the new and modified files of A to be copied to folder B. Any suggestions? Is there a BASH command for the same?

Ravi Ranjan Singh: You have to add a hard link between folder A and folder B. Use the command `ln A B` on the bash prompt. It will create the hard link.

Askar Askur: This is what I should have done, but I didn't do that. The file already exists. Giving a hard link wouldn't work here.

Hello. I have installed dual boot: Win7 and Ubuntu. I pressed the delete button in Ubuntu partition. When I restarted my PC, there was cant work. ERROR: NO SUCH PARTITION. Can you help me?

omgs: Reinstall Windows or reinstall ubuntu back. Your partition table will be fixed and you will see both the Oses.

Flamuri Shqiptar: I wanted to reinstall Windows 7 but I couldn't. I tried with XP too, but it did not work. I want to install only Windows 7.

omgs: So please install Windows 7 only from the installation disc.

Flamuri Shqiptar: I can't install because there is an error which says: Cannot boot from cd-code:5.

Hi friend, please help me. How to install Picasa 3.9 on Fedora 16 without using wine?

omgs: You have to wait till Google releases it for Linux, else you can use other alternatives such as Showtell photo manager, which is as good as Picasa!

Daniel Ribeiro: I had the same problem with software centre and the update manager. I solved that updating by the old school way (with the console). After that my software centre worked fine again. Hope I have been able to help you.

Vipin Balakrishnan: Close your software centre and update manager if it opens. Then execute the below command in the terminal

sudo apt-get clean
sudo mv /var/lib/apt/lists /tmp sudo mkdir -p /var/lib/apt/lists/partial
sudo apt-get clean
sudo apt-get update.
