

Open Hardware Sparks Innovation in ROBOTICS

The RoboMSR team and their projects, some of which use open hardware components

Open hardware helps sort out many issues that hamper the advance of robotics in India—the lack of advanced components, insufficient know-how to patch these together into finished products, the high cost of parts and platforms, and so on. A touch of open source could be the magical boost that the Indian robotics community needs.