

YOU SAID IT

On subscribing to OSFY

I am planning to subscribe to Open Source For You but I have some queries. It would be great if you address them as early as possible so that I can take a decision soon.

- 1) There is a discount of 50 per cent when you subscribe to OSFY. Can you tell me if this is on magazines with or without the DVD?
- 2) Can you explain your delivery process?

ED: It's good to hear that you plan on subscribing to our magazine. Well, let me answer your queries, one by one.

1. Open Source For You always comes along with a DVD. Under the 50 per cent discount scheme too, you will get the magazine with an enclosed DVD.
2. Typically, we send the regular copies of Open Source For You through INDIA POSTAL SERVICES. In case of non-receipt of any issue, you can always inform us within 45 days of the publication date.

Hope that answers your queries. Do feel free to contact us if you have any other doubts.

"OSFY introduced me to open source"

I am a regular subscriber and avid reader of your magazine. I would like to thank all of you for the wonderful magazine you publish every month. Indeed, it was LFY (now OSFY) which first introduced me to the world of FOSS and convinced me to migrate to Linux.

Today, I wish to join the OSFY team in spreading the message of open source. I have written an article entitled 'At Your Fingertips' which is essentially a review and comparison of three application launchers—GNOME Do, Synapse and GNOME Pie. I like to refer to this type of article as a 'Software Showdown'. The article includes quotes from the developers and also hints at the future form of application launchers.

If the article is not up to your magazine's high standards, please do let me know. I would greatly appreciate feedback from such an experienced editorial team. Your suggestions will surely help improve my open source advocacy.

Could you also clarify whether an OSFY author is expected to write every month? My college will be commencing shortly and I am unsure of how much time I can commit to OSFY. Further, how much payment do OSFY authors receive for their articles? Thanks once again for your informative and instructional magazine.

ED: It feels great to know that OSFY has inspired you to become a Linux user. Thanks for letting us know about this. We are also pleased to hear that you have written an article for us. Well, there is no compulsion that you have to write every month for OSFY. It's completely your choice. If your article gets published, you get Rs 750 per page as an honorarium. Hope we have been able to answer your questions. Please feel free to contact us if you have any other queries.

Note: Incidentally, 'Tushar's article, 'At Your Fingertips', was approved by the OSFY editorial team and appears in this issue. Congrats, Tushar, for making the switch from tech enthusiast to tech writer! END

Content on OpenStack

Karthik Bhat: I need to know more about OpenStack. Hope to read more information on it in the forthcoming OSFY issues.

Open Source For You: Hi Karthik. Thanks for writing in. We have included a lot on OpenStack. In fact, you will find the articles in the OSFY July 2013 edition. Hope you like them.

Karthik Bhat: Thanks. That's good news indeed and I am excited about buying the issue.
