

Contents

DEVELOPERS

- 31 Why and How to Compile a Custom Kernel
- 34 Debug Your Application with Strace
- 38 Jumpstart Linux Kernel Module Programming
- 44 Analyse Linux Kernel Code with Sparse
- 52 Need a Backend For Your App? Here's Parse to the Rescue!
- 54 Getting Started with Jenkins
- 68 Write Your Own conio.h for GNU/Linux
- 88 Developing Applications Using Node.js

ADMIN

- 62 The CIO's Chief Concerns About the Cloud
- 73 Load Balancing for a Dynamic Web Application
- 96 Why is Host Integrity Monitoring Important?

41 Building an Embedded System Based on the Initial RAM Disk

48 The CloudSim Framework: Modelling and Simulating the Cloud Environment

ON THE DVD

A Live bootable Linux distribution with a collection of GNU/Linux software.

A Gentoo-based distribution with a wide number of applications that are ready-to-use.

An Enterprise-class Linux Distribution for people who need a stable operating system without the cost of certification and support.

A Linux distribution based on Ubuntu that has been especially designed for Linux newcomers.

