

YOU SAID IT

Article on Libre Office Maths

I have been reading Open Source For You since quite a few years now, so I take this opportunity to congratulate you in bringing out a magazine that offers an outstanding platform for readers to learn about open source. I would be pleased if you let me know the practical usage of Libre office Maths formulae—it would be great if you could publish an article about Libre office Maths in the forthcoming issue.

ED: When readers write to us and tell us how they have benefited from OSFY, we are indeed motivated to do even better. Thank you so much for the compliments. Well, your suggestion is a great one and we will put in our best to bring out some content on Libre Office Maths in our future editions. Till then, keep reading our magazine and keep sharing your views with us.

An old OSFY enthusiast writes....

I am an Italian national and have been living in India since September 1990. Long ago I bought my first issue of LINUX For You (now OSFY). At that time, the 'Developer' section was printed as a separate booklet shipped together with the main magazine. So you can imagine how long ago that was! I bought it every month, to support your effort. Even though I did not have a computer, I was attracted by the Linux world. In 2004, when I bought my first computer, I installed Mandrake 9.2—my very first Linux distro. I still hardly know anything of computers, but I subscribed to your magazine again two years ago, for a while...Now I have decided to renew my subscription for two years again, even though it has become very technical for me. But I support the beautiful job you are doing in promoting GNU/Linux and open source, in general.

I would be interested to know more about the Linux from Scratch project and BLFS. I wondered if you have any plans to ship the latest Slackware or, more for my level, the latest Mageia.

Thank you very much for your work.

—An avid reader!

ED: First, a confession! Your mail had us all glued to the page throughout and we really enjoyed reading it. It's great to know that you are such an avid reader of our magazine. Yes, there are quite a few like you, but not many make the effort to let us know about their love for OSFY. Yes, you will soon find your favourite distros bundled in one of our future editions. Till then, keep writing to us. Thanks once again!

Articles on Android

Gurunath M Reddy: Please publish an article on Android application development.

Open Source For You: Hi Gurunath! We have covered a lot on Android apps development. The September 2013 issue is an Android special. Do give us your views after you have read it.

Gurunath M Reddy: I've been reading this magazine only since the last few months, so I was not aware of the previous issues.

Articles on Ruby on Rails

Umang Kharbada: Can you consider including some articles on Ruby on Rails? I find your magazine super awesome because of its ability to give so much to its readers. Thanks a lot.

Open Source For You: Thanks a lot for the suggestion. We will try including more articles on your desired topic in one of our forthcoming editions.
