Get nostalgic with Saregama's retro Bluetooth speakers

Indian music label and TV content producer Saregama has launched its latest Bluetooth speaker, Carvaan, which looks like a classic radio.

The device comes with multiple built-in features and 5000 classic Hindi songs, which can be accessed anywhere and anytime, even without an Internet connection. The 1.5kg stereo speaker has an audio wattage of 6W. The speakers support USB playback, Bluetooth and FM radio, along with the classic radio Geetmala commentary by Ameen Sayani.

The rear of the device includes a simple LED display and a huge shiny tuning knob for adjusting radio channels. The right side of the speaker includes a plastic vertical volume dial and a 3.5mm port to connect headphones. The top includes a big power button, a small battery indicator light and four buttons for the different sources – Saregama, USB, FM and Bluetooth — on the left side.

The speakers get charged by a standard microUSB charger, and the charge gives over four hours of playback at full volume. Saregama's Carvaan Bluetooth speaker is available via online stores.
