

nice-looking design. It has a great slate screen and impressive performance. Its user interface is good and it comes in two variants, with 64 gigabytes or 32 gigabytes microSD slots. It comes with a 2K display, and is one of the genuine alternatives to Apple's iPad.

4. Google Nexus 9

Google created the Nexus 9 and this tablet is built by HTC. It runs the latest version of Android and you will continue to receive timely software updates for Nexus 9 tablets for another year. It has a 22.6cm (8.9 inches) display and an NVIDIA Tegra K1 processor. You can buy the Nexus 9 tablet with either 16 or 32 gigabytes of onboard storage. This tablet also comes with a big 6700mAh battery and weighs only 436 grams. Navigation, switching applications, playing games and streaming movies or videos in this tablet are a breeze. It also has a nice soft-touch material at the back that makes this tablet easy to hold, similar to the original Nexus 5 tablet. It comes with an 8 megapixel back camera and 1.6 megapixel front camera. It has a powerful 64-bit processor, Boom Sound speakers, a long lasting battery and speedy Android updates.

Figure 4: Google Nexus 9 (Source: Google)

5. Samsung Galaxy Tab S2 8.0

The Samsung Galaxy Tab S2 8.0 comes with a smaller 20.3cm (8 inches) display that makes it convenient and easy to carry around anywhere. This tablet is only 5.6mm thick and weighs just 265 grams. Its successor, the Samsung Galaxy Tab

Figure 5: Samsung Galaxy Tab S2 8.0 (Source: Google)

S2, makes it an even better option. It has plenty of power to keep you going through all your tasks without any lag. It is rather similar to an iPad, and comes with 3 gigabytes of RAM and 32GB/64GB of microSD storage, expandable up to 128GB. In addition, it comes with an 8MP rear camera and a 2.1MP front camera.

6. NVIDIA Shield K1

The specifications and design of this tablet are pretty much the same as other tablets. However, it additionally has a rubberised surface next to the speakers. It also comes with brushed metal lettering on the rear side of the tablet. This brand was always expensive, but now the company is trying to cut costs by not including the charger or stylus. The specifications of this tablet are listed below.

Figure 6: NVIDIA Shield K1 (Source: Google)

- It comes with an 20.3cm (8 inches) LCD display with a resolution of 1920 x 1200.
- It has a 2.2GHz quad-core NVIDIA Tegra K1 processor.
- It comes along with 2 gigabytes of RAM and a non-removable 19.75Whr battery.
- It has 16GB of onboard storage with microSD card expansion.
- It also has a 5MP rear and 5MP front built-in camera.

- It runs on the Android 6.0 Marshmallow operating system and you can update it for a later version.

7. Asus Fonepad

Asus Fonepad is one of the sleekest tablets in the market. It has a 17.78cm (7 inches) IPS LCD capacitive touch screen with a resolution of 800x1280 pixels. You can use it to make calls over 3G networks. It runs on Android version 4.1, and you can download all the latest games and applications from the Google Play store. Asus Fonepad supports multi-touch, and has multiple sensors like the proximity sensor, G sensor and ambient light sensor. It comes with the Intel Atom Z2420 1.2GHz processor, enabling it to run graphics-rich games without glitches.

Figure 7: Asus Fonepad (Source: Google)

8. Samsung Galaxy Tab S

This tablet comes with an excellent screen and plenty of power to multitask, but it has less storage capacity. It has a thin screen and is very light to carry. This tablet is available in 21.3cm (8.4 inches) and 26.6cm (10.5 inches) variants. The Samsung Galaxy Tab S has a high speed 2.3GHz quad-core processor with 3 gigabytes of RAM. It also comes with a microSD slot,

Figure 8: Samsung Galaxy Tab S (Source: Google)