

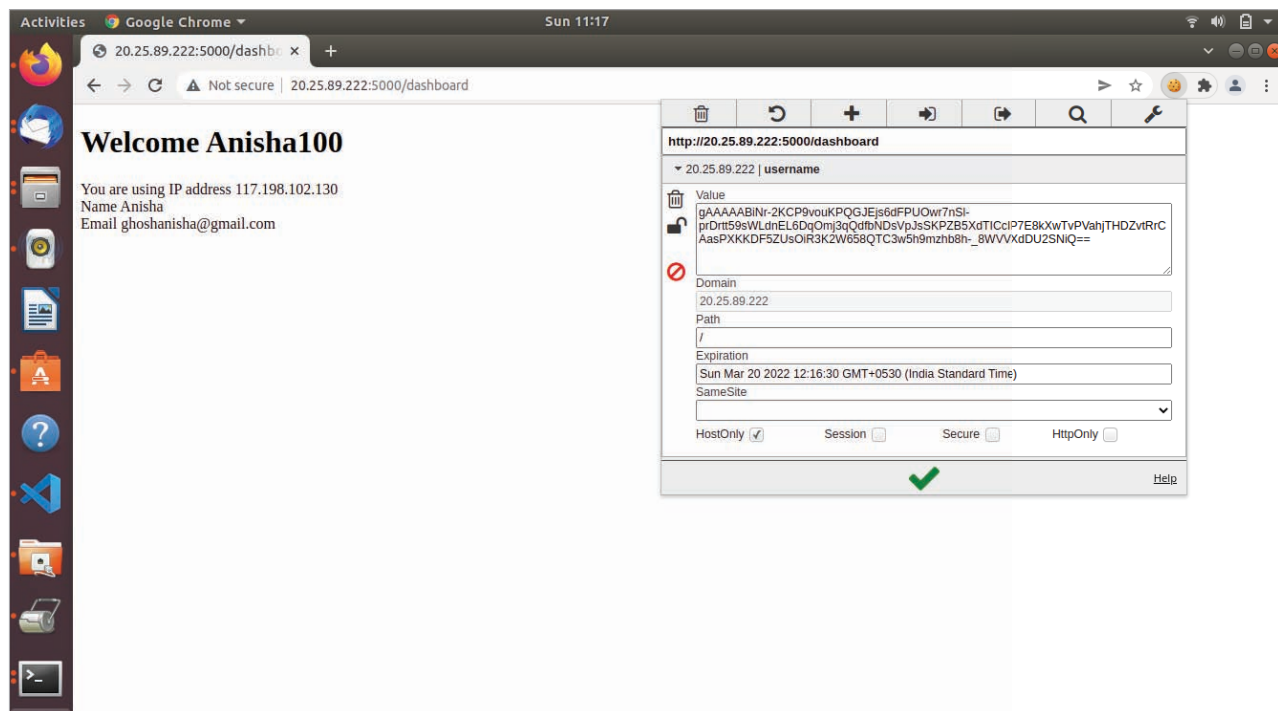

Figure 2: User machine where IP is displayed and cookies are being transferred to another device

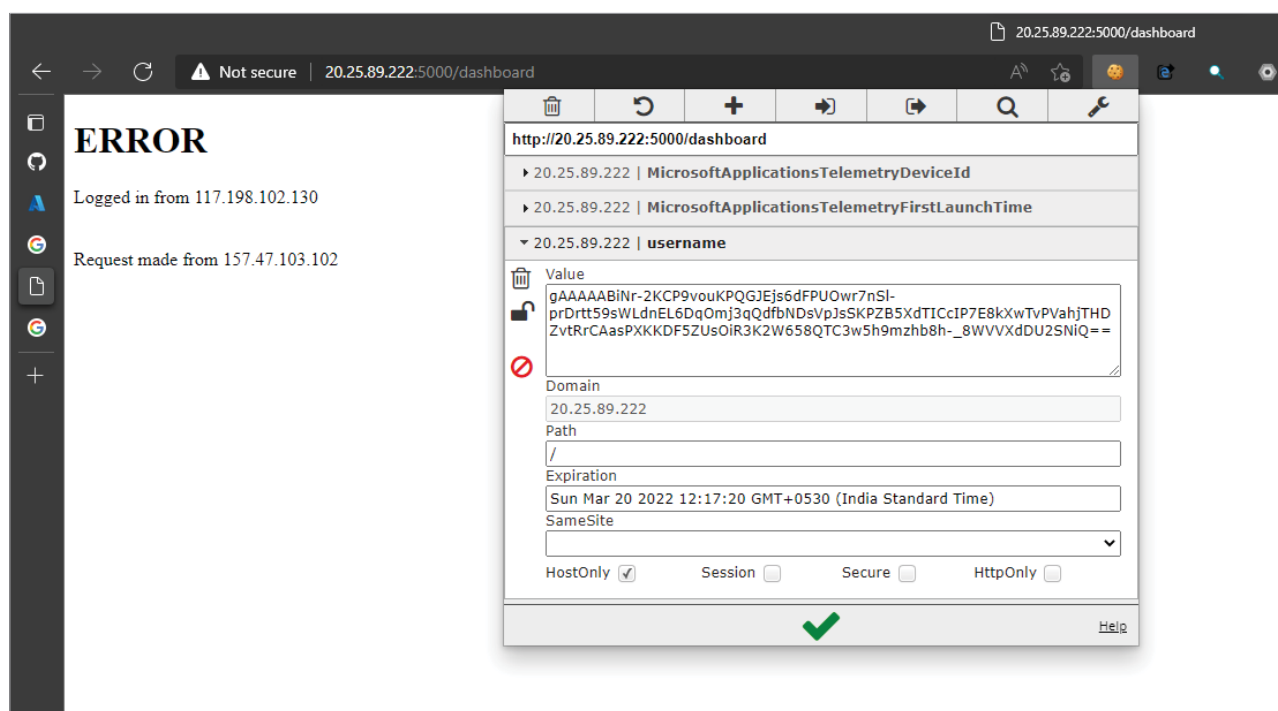

Figure 3: Attacker's machine is denied access cookie data to another device. In case the attacker gains access and tries to log in by pretending to be the user, the error page is displayed as shown in Figure 3 and cookie hijacking is prevented successfully. END 🐧

By: Anisha Ghosh

The author is a cyber security researcher and an active contributor to the open source communities and repositories. She is interested in developing novel, scalable and secure systems.