

YOU SAID IT

The OSFY effect

I am currently a B. Tech student at Christ University, Bengaluru. I have been reading your magazines ever since I joined my professional course and find them amazing. They teach me the topics that a computer engineer must know about in the current tech world and which are out-of-syllabus. I am also a regular reader of EFY and I had attended the EFY Expo 2016 which was held recently in Bengaluru. The Expo was a great place for the tech-savvy. I met a few interesting people and also learned a lot about electronics and IoT.

I actually like security related topics. Also, thanks for bundling the bootable Kali Linux and Backbox distros (if not, I would have had to spend time in downloading ISO files of 3-4GB). Your magazine, OSFY, has transformed me so much that I've started my own blog on 'Open Source Security Tools' hosted on GitHub (<https://hackwith.github.io>) and also started a regularly maintained page/account on Facebook, Twitter and LinkedIn.

*ED: First of all, a big thank you for your words of appreciation. Through the years, we have constantly worked at improving the content, layout and design of the magazine in order to make your reading experience more enjoyable. It really makes us feel great knowing how our readers have benefited by reading OSFY. And as our readers have always done, we urge you to continue sharing your views with us, as this motivates us and helps us to deliver even better.*

Missing subscription copy

I did not receive the February issue of Open Source For You magazine. Kindly let me know how to get it.

ED: We regret the inconvenience caused. I would request you to please send an email to support@efy.in with details like the subscription number and missing issue. They will revert to you and arrange to send a copy.

Articles for beginners

Please guide me on the online courses for Linux. Also, some topics covered in OSFY go over my head, as I am a newbie. Could I request you to please include some more articles for beginners?

—Goswami Prashanta, pacificg@gmail.com

*ED: Thanks for your feedback. We always try to carry articles that cater to different types of readers. The current issue of OSFY, for instance, has a number of articles for beginners. Also, as you suggested, we will try and include more articles for newbies. We urge you to continue sharing your opinion with us, as this motivates us and helps us to deliver even better.*

Writing for opensourceforu.com

I have over 11 years of experience as a Web developer. My hobby is to write articles on Web development using WordPress, Joomla, Drupal and other such themes. I would like to contribute such articles to opensourceforu.com. I hope the content in these would be beneficial to your specific audience. Let me know if this is an option.
